Below are ten QuickBooks Invoice templates that you can download for free. 1. Freelancer Hourly Rate QuickBooks Invoice Template The QuickBooks Hourly Rate is ideal for an independent worker or consultant who charges their clients an hour. Contains columns to describe services, hours, and hourly rates. Once you fill in these three fields, it will automatically calculate the extended amount for each service for each service, along with the total amount due. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 2. Freelancer Fixed Rate QuickBooks Invoice Template fixed rate QuickBooks invoice is ideal for an independent worker or consultant who charges his clients a flat rate as opposed to an hourly rate. Like the hourly rate template, it contains a service description column and a flat fee. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and do changes. 3. Law Firm/Attorney QuickBooks Invoice Template Law Firm/Attorney QuickBooks template is ideal for law firms that need to charge clients for hours worked and/or other expenses incurred on (e.g. mileage to/from the client's office, court filing fees, parking fees). This template is similar to a freelance hourly template, but contains an expense reimbursement section and a field for notate client case numbers. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 4. Nonprofit QuickBooks Invoice Template The nonprofit QuickBooks template is ideal for nonprofits that need to bill their donors for unpaid donor commitments. This template contains a column that contains a detailed description, quantity, and rate. When these fields are filled in, the extended amount is automatically calculated. We have included a field to which we refer to the donor ID, if possible. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 5. Down payment Work QuickBooks invoice template If you generally require clients to give you a down payment before you start working on a project, the down payment work quickbooks invoice template will be perfect for you. This template is identical to the nonprofit template, but contains a field just below the subtotal that subtracts all the deposit amounts you received from the customer. You can download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 6. Property Management QuickBooks Invoice Template If you are a landlord who needs to charge residential or commercial tenants for monthly rent, the QuickBooks real estate management invoice template is ideal for you. Contains columns to describe services and rates. When you fill in these two fields, the extended amount and the total invoice amount are automatically calculated. We also included a field for the name/number of the building and the tenant unit number. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 7. Installment Invoicing QuickBooks Invoice Template Installment Billing QuickBooks invoice template is ideal for larger projects that require installments. When receiving payments, please include them directly below the total amount of the project, together with the details of the inspection. You can download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 8. Products subject to the QuickBooks VAT invoice template If you sell products, you must charge VAT to your customers. Products subject to the QuickBooks sales tax invoice template are ideal for you. Unlike the templates described so far, this template contains a column for the product code, along with the description and cost. To calculate sales tax, enter the tax rate in the VAT Rate field, and vat is automatically calculated. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 9. Products without vat-free invoice template Products that are not subject to the VAT template are identical to products subject to the QuickBooks VAT invoice template, with one exception — excluding VAT Therefore, if you sell products that are not subject to VAT, this template is perfect for you. You can download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. 10. Discount Calculation QuickBooks Invoice Template If you would like to give your customers a discount, calculating the QuickBooks discount invoice template is perfect for you. This template contains columns for description, quantity, and cost. There is a discount field directly below the subtotal field. You can enter the discount you want to use (e.g. 10, no need to enter a sign%) and is automatically calculated. Download this template in PDF or Excel format and make the necessary changes. QuickBooks invoice template should include a sales invoice is a document that provides the customer with all the important details about the products and services they have purchased from you. To ensure that your payment is not delayed, you want to make sure that your contact information and customer contact information are accurate. You should also include your invoice number, invoice date, and the following information: What products/services you charge them for how much each product/service is worth Due Date: The query details below are listed in the ten key fields that should appear in all QuickBooks invoice templates: 1. Company name and contact information QuickBooks Online invoice templates should contain all relevant information that your customer will need to reach you. This includes, but is not limited to: company name Postal address (where you want to send payments) Physical address (note: please indicate only if customers will have to pick up products and it is not the same as your mailing address above) Phone number E-mail address Web 2. Customer/client name and contact details Your invoices should contain all customer contact information, for example: Company name Postal address E-mail address Web 3. Invoice number All invoices should be assigned a unique invoice number. If you use accounting software such as QuickBooks, this number will be automatically generated each time an invoice is created. However, if you are not using accounting software, you will need to manually assign an invoice number to each invoice that you generate for customers. Customers can refer to this number when they contact you with questions, and they can provide on their checks when making a payment, so you can ensure that payments are used correctly. 4. Invoice date In general, the invoice date is to create and send the invoice to the customer. Ideally, you should email invoices to customers to avoid a delay between the invoice generation time and the time it was sent to the customer. If you are using QuickBooks, you can email invoices from the software. 5. Payment Terms The Payment Terms are the period during which you provide your customers to pay you. Standard payment terms are net for 30 days, which means the invoice is due within 30 days of the invoice date. To help you choose which payment terms are right for you, check out the best invoice terms for your small business. 6. Customer ID / account number Many small businesses assign each of their clients a unique account number. If you assign an IDENTIFICATION number to your customers, be sure to include this information in any invoices that you generate. 7. Product/service description The description of products/services purchased by customers should be given on each invoice you generate. This will help you minimize the questions that customers may have and help you get paid faster. If the invoice is vague or unclear about what you charge the customer, the payment may be delayed, which will have a negative impact on your cash flow. 8. Cost of products/services I think it goes without saying that you need to include the cost of your services so that your customer knows how much they owe. Most importantly, make sure that the invoice cost is what you quoted your customer to avoid any payment delays. 9. Amount due The amount due shall be the total amount owed by the customer for the products and services indicated on the invoice. Again, it is important to make sure that this sum is correct to avoid payment delays. If you use accounting software like QuickBooks, the total amount owed is automatically calculated for you! 10. Acceptable payment methods All invoices you generate should include instructions on how customers can pay. If you use accounting software such as QuickBooks, you can sign up to auto payments so that every invoice you send by email will include a payment button that allows customers to make payments online using their debit/credit card or bank account information. If you are not using accounting software, be sure to provide instructions on where to send the cheques or instructions on how to pay by debit/credit card.
